The Radio Society of Great Britain (RSGB) is run by radio amateurs for radio amateurs (licensed or not), working for you, protecting your interests. We keep you informed of the latest amateur radio news, and amongst friends who understand the hobby.

Being part of the RSGB means access each month to the biggest and best UK amateur radio magazine, RadCom. Only available to RSGB members for less than the price of some other high street radio magazines, there is no better way to stay in touch with the world of radio.

Being a member of the RSGB is much more than a subscription to our magazine. You become part of a society which provides you with all the great benefits shown overleaf.

Online magazines are available at rsgb.org/radcom. This gives RSGB members easy access to over ten years of back issues of RadCom, as well as RadCom Basics and RadCom Plus. You can easily search with a single click and much more.
